Headline:
Clear or sunny spells in east. Cloudier in west.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rather cloudy across northwestern areas overnight, with limited clearer spells. Perhaps some drizzly rain later in the west. More frequent clearer spells in the south and east, with isolated mist patches possible in prone rural spots by dawn. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Thursday:
Largely fine, with light winds. Dry with warm sunny spells in southeastern parts. Often cloudier across Oxfordshire and other western areas, with the odd spot of drizzle possible. Maximum temperature 25 deg C (77 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Sunny spells and breezy Friday, but cloudier overnight into Saturday, with rain at times. Probably dry but rather cloudy Saturday. Perhaps turning wetter and windier Sunday, with rain spreading northeast.
